High-frequency Word Chart

Short-vowel Decodables 1.0 & 1.1

High-frequency words are commonly seen words that a student will come across often, for example 'at', 'see' and 'was'. Some reading programs often require the student to memorise these words and recognise them on sight.

However, many of these words can be decoded. This reduces the number of things to recall when reading a text.

■ Some words can be decoded early, for example, 'at' and 'in'.

■ Some words are temporarily not decodable, meaning that once their letters and sounds have been learned the words can be decoded, for example, 'see' and 'saw'.

■ Some words are permanently not decodable, for example, 'was' and 'said'.
